TWO SLIM CHANCES REMAIN FOR RUSSELL SCOTT TO ESCAPE DEATH

GOVERNOR SMALL TO GIVE LAST HEARING SAYS HIS ATTORNEY

Surrender of Brother Only
Other Chance to Gain
Reprieve

Chicago, July 23.—Russell Scott today had but two remaining chances to escape the gallows at dawn tomorrow. The first is a final hearing by Governor Small on his case, to be held sometime today, according to Scott's attorneys.

The second—forlorn in the extreme—is that Robert, the missing brother, surrender and accept full blame for the murder of Joseph Maurer, drug clerk.

Scott's new attorneys, Charles W. Bidwell and Arthur Kettles, did not say when or where they had obtained Governor Small's consent for reopening the hearing and the governor made no statement in confirmation of it.

The only public indication from the governor was in a letter from his secretary, George Sutton, to Miss Maude Gardner of Sandwich, Ont., who has been active in Scott's behalf. Referring to the Robert Scott "fake telegram," on which the governor last Friday granted Scott a week's reprieve, Mr. Sutton said in his letter: "However, no eleventh hour circumstances will halt the execution this time; I hate to write you this bad news, but it is a fact."

The executive officials had been deluged all week with letters and telegrams from all over the country urging clemency for Scott.

The governor has not been in Springfield.

Attaches of the governor's office declined to say where the executive was and that there was no indication that he would grant another reprieve.

"If the governor has told a personal friend he will reprieve Scott," said one attaché of the office in discussing a news bulletin from Detroit. "But Scott's new lawyers insisted the governor had assured them of a further hearing today. They said it will take place presumably either in Springfield at the governor's home in Kankakee, or at his summer cottage at Michigan City, Ind."

Meanwhile Scott again sat in the county jail death chamber today counting, under a double guard, his remaining hours.

Thomas Scott, aged father of Scott, returned last night from Detroit, where he had been several days in his son's behalf. The old man told his son that Salvation army had promised to hold demonstrations for Scott in Detroit today and that two club women—he did not give their names—left for Swampscott, Mass., to call on President Coolidge with a plea for some sort of intervention.

PUBLICITY CLAUSE WILL BE REPEALED

Washington, July 23.—Official announcement was made today that the treasury department would ask the next congress to repeal the publicity provision of the income tax law.

Acting Secretary Winston said that the treasury would not object to the income tax payments being made available to congressional committees but would oppose the giving of them to the newspapers.

The treasury's attitude, however, will not interfere with the publication of the 1924 payments on September 1.

GERMAN RESIDENT WILL GET PROPERTY

Washington, July 23.—The way was opened today for Mrs. Beta Isenbarg, who lives in Bremen, Germany, to secure the return of a million dollars worth of property in Hawaii seized from her during the war through the trading with the enemy act.

District of Columbia supreme court has ruled that Mrs. Isenbarg was legally a citizen of Hawaii, rather than Germany, since her husband was accorded Hawaiian citizenship in 1874.

CHORUS GIRLS IDENTIFY MURDER VICTIM; EX-CONVICT ARRESTED

Say Youth Found Slain at Cleveland Is Thomas Smith,
Gambling House Employee—Lima Woman Believes Victim May Be Her Son.

Cleveland, O., July 23.—While an ex-convict, suspected of being the actual slayer of the youth whose body was found last Friday lying along a roadside in a Cleveland suburb was being brought to Cleveland from Columbus today, authorities were working on the latest identification of the murder victim.

Two chorus girls who visited the morgue where the body has been kept told police today that the man was Thomas Smith of Harrison, N. J., and that he was known to his associates as "Red" or "Irish."

The girls, Helen Carson and Dollie

DESTROYS FAMILY IN JEALOUS RAGE OVER WIFE'S EX-HUSBAND

Barber Then Suicides—
Wife and Daughters are
His Victims

Chicago, July 23.—Believed to have resented his wife talking to her daughters of her former husband, Paul Orlando, a barber, today killed his wife, Amelia, his two stepdaughters, Marie, 14 and Louise, 12, and then committed suicide.

Orlando had heard the mother telling her daughters what a handsome man their father was and believed that his wife still had an affection for the man who had preceded him in her life. He married the widow seven years ago.

The body of the mother was found in a barber chair with a bullet wound through the head. Six feet away lay the body of Marie and on the stairs leading to the living apartment above the barber shop was the body of Louise. In the bedroom, his hands still clutching two heavy calibre revolvers, lay the body of Orlando.

Bullet marks were all through the apartment and shop. But still sleeping peacefully in a triple crib in the bedroom were three babies of his own fatherhood. Orlando's body was found, were the children aged 2, 4 and 6 years, were clasped in each other's arms. Orlando had not harmed them.

Davis said they had known Smith and wife for five years and that he had re-entirely been employed as doorman at a Detroit gambling house, located close to the National Theatre there.

The ex-convict, whose spectacular arrest at Buckeye Lake, a summer resort thirty miles from Columbus last night, gave hope to officers that the solution of the baffling crime was at last in sight, was said to have told an associate in a Cleveland cafe that he "had to bump off a man" in order to get the best of a liquor deal. A woman, who overheard him talking reported the conversation to police and tipped them off as to his whereabouts.

As soon as the suspect reached Cleveland he will be subjected to the severest grilling. Meanwhile police have given him no information as to the nature of the charge that may be filed against him.

Lima, O., July 23.—Believing that the 20 year old youth found shot to death at Rock River near Cleveland, is her son, Harold Dittman, Mrs. Rose Thompson, of Kenton, has asked Sheriff George H. Berlein to investigate. The description of the slain youth tallies with that of her son, missing for several months.

Columbus, O., July 23.—William Geary, 28, Columbus, who has served two terms in Ohio State penitentiary, is held here for questioning today by Cleveland and Columbus detectives in connection with the slaying of the "mystery youth" whose body was found last Friday near Rocky River village, a Cleveland suburb.

Geary was taken into custody early today at Buckeye Lake, a summer resort, 30 miles east of here. Detectives refused today to disclose on what information Geary was held. He was booked at city prison for "investigation."

His parents reside in Detroit.

ATTACK LAUNCHED IN WASHINGTON TO TEST POWERS OF CONGRESS

Admitted Atheist Wants To Put Court On Record
In Case

Washington, July 23.—A scathing attack upon congress for "glorifying ignorance and thwarting liberal education" was hurled today by Loren H. Wittner, who has filed suit in the District of Columbia supreme court to stop salaries of instructors teaching scientific theories in conflict with the Holy Bible. "Congress is glorifying ignorance, intolerance and bigotry," Wittner declares. "Congress is uniting state and church. Congress is confining education in the Washington schools to the teachings of the Holy Bible, written by men who knew nothing about natural science."

"These charges were borne out," Wittner declared, "by congress' action in passing the provision to the last district appropriation bill which forbids payments of salaries to instructors who teach 'disrespect of the Holy Bible.'"

"Disrespect to the Bible, is being taught here," Wittner said, "by the teaching of natural science, which denies miracles and the scientific theories of the Bible."

Through filing of his suit, Wittner said he hoped to place the federal court definitely on record forbidding congress to "foist the religion of the Holy Bible upon the schools and stop the forces of bigotry from gaining possession of school curricula."

WILL APPEAR TUESDAY

Justice Siddons has ordered the defendants in the suit, all fiscal agents of the city, to show cause on next Tuesday why an injunction should not be granted to halt the salaries.

"We are going to fight this thing through to the supreme court and get a final decision," said Wittner.

He has brought the suit in federal court with the hope that it will reach the supreme court more speedily than the Scales case in Tennessee.

"The injunction process is faster, and I think it may get into the supreme court early in the winter," he said.

He conceived the idea of a "test" case here, Wittner said, immediately after John T. Scopes was indicted in Dayton but he did not press it pending the outcome of the Tennessee trial. "The question here is much broader than in Tennessee," he explained. "The question before the court briefly is this:

"Has congress, or any state legislature the right constitutionally to narrow school curricula so that the Holy Bible teachings shall be accepted as the only true scientific theories."

"If congress is permitted to continue to pursue that course, the Holy Bible will be the only book of science that can be taught in the schools."

"I AM AN ATHEIST"

"I am an atheist. I believe religion is detrimental because it teaches dependence and one can never achieve independence if one is dependent."

"By its very act in the appropriation bill, congress is setting up a definite religion in the country when it says nothing disrespectful of the Bible shall be taught. That violates the fundamental American principle of separation of state and church and is unconstitutional."

"Education must be loosed from the fetters of intolerance and placed upon a high plane of liberalism."

Wittner said that as far back as he could remember he has been a "liberal, not a straddling fundamentalist, but a pure liberal."

KIRBY JURY REPORTS ITSELF DEADLOCKED

Delaware, O., July 23.—The jury, weighing the evidence against Joseph Kirby, former president of the Cleveland Discount Company, reported itself deadlocked at 10 o'clock this morning and was sent back to the jury room to resume its deliberations.

Court room gossip at that time, almost 20 hours after the case had been given into the jury's hands placed the vote at 11 to 1 for acquittal.

Kirby is being tried for the third time on a charge of having illegally obtained $3,000 worth of stock in his company from Mrs. Grace Cooper through certain stock retirement plans he is said to have devised.

He has twice been acquitted.

Newport, R. I., July 23.—Society's four hundred was gathering here, the bridal gown and trousseau have arrived from Paris, the clergymen have been selected, the father may give his daughter in marriage by the wedding will be marked by simplicity—these are virtually the only facts available today regarding the marriage on Saturday of Miss Muriel Vanderbilt and Frederick Cameron Church of Lowell, Mass.

Kaiser Overcame Handicap Of Lifeless Arm Says Wife

Princess Hermine Reveals For First Time Serious Condition of Ex-Emperor—Heatedly Denies Charges His Exile Indicates Cowardice

(Note—Following is second installment interview with Princess Hermine, "Empress without an empire" who is sharing the lonely exile of the former Kaiser Wilhelm at Doorn.)

Yesterday Hermine denounced reports of domestic discords between the royal pair.

"All stories that the kaiser and I are estranged, or are intending to separate, or seek divorce, are malicious lies," she said passionately. "Why we have never even quarreled."

Today she deals with the charge of cowardice which has been made by Wilhelm's enemies because of his flight to Holland.

The third installment will appear tomorrow.

BY S. DUNBAR WEYER

Wild Bad, Black Forest, Germany, July 23.—Hermine speaks of the kaiser with affection but without affectation. Never does she picture their relationship as in the nature of a couple of turtle doves; rather she presents it as that ideal comradeship of a couple matured in the crucible of life's trials and tribulations, but both in their prime, both imbued with a spirit to make the best of it.

Neither of them will ever go under, because of wounded vanity, unrealized ambition, or slander. Curiously mingling with her womanly charm is over apparently the note of the "win" spirit, undaunted courage and determination.

Now and then when the conversation touches upon pitfalls attending her position as the kaiser's wife or upon the everlasting gossip which scandal-mongers shower upon her, there comes a defiant flash in her

RIFFS NAME POINTS FOR PEACE TREATY

London, July 23.—Five points on which he would make peace were credited to Abd-el-Krim in dispatches printed here today, a few hours before the arrival of word that the Riffian leaders troops were retreating in confusion after stubborn fighting on the central French front in Morocco.

Dispatches to the Times from Tangier said the tribesmen were withdrawing into their own territory in the center sector. In the Queznan and Taza sectors the situation was reported unchanged.

RED CROSS WORKERS REPORTED VICTIMS; PROFESSOR IS HELD

U. S. Consul Protests To Dictator—Note To Foreign Office

Shanghai, July 23.—Major Morgan Palmer, of the American Red Cross and five of his companions were killed by Chinese bandits in the Sungari river district of Manchuria today, according to advices reaching Shanghai.

Dr. Harvey Howard of the Rockefeller Institute was reported held prisoner.

Dr. Hector M. Howard of Jackson, Miss., an executive in the Rockefeller Foundation, has done considerable research work in disease prevention in the Far East. The dispatches however, identify the American held prisoner by the Chinese bandit gang as Dr. Harvey Howard.

Pekin, July 23.—The American consul at Harbin has lodged a protest with Chang Tso Lin, military dictator, and the American legation is sending a note to the Chinese foreign office over the reported killing of Major Wm. Morgan Palmer and the holding of Dr. Harvey J. Howard, Pekin Rockefeller Hospital official, for ransom by Chinese bandits.

Palmer was reported to have been slain while defending his ranch against the bandits on the Sungari river above Harbin.

Major Palmer was in the United States army reserve. He was born in Plattsburg, N. Y., and was a Harvard graduate. He had been in China since 1910. He had a fluent command of the Chinese language and worked for the Chinese government and was active during the famine of 1920.

He held the Wen Hu and Chiao Ho decorations of the Chinese government.

New York, July 23.—Official confirmation of the capture of Dr. Harvey J. Howard of the Peking union medical college by Manchurian bandits, was received by the Rockefeller Foundation here today, from Roger S. Greene, general director of the Foundations China medical board.

A cablegram received from Greene announced that Dr. Howard was captured at a ranch near Harbin, Manchuria. His son, James, who was with him, escaped and is safe the message said. Greene advised that he was leaving Peking for Harbin "immediately."

The supposition of officials of the Foundation here was that Dr. Howard was vacationing at the Manchurian ranch.

Dr. Howard is professor of optometry at the Peking College which is supported by the Foundation. At the same time, the American Red Cross headquarters here were without private advices concerning the reported death of Major Morgan Palmer at the hands of the same bandits who are holding Dr. Howard.

Missing Professor Safe—
Absent Mindedly
Mislaid Wife

London, July 23.—With Professor Joseph Victor Collins, of Stevens Point, Wisconsin, Normal School, safe and reported enroute back from Edinburgh to his anxious wife and daughter in London, the reason for his mysterious departure still remained unexplained today.

Advices from Edinburgh said merely that through a misunderstanding he had gone to Edinburgh earlier than he expected and believed his wife and daughter would follow.

His disappearance enlisted Scotland Yard in a citywide search, took his daughter into hospitals and morgues in the fear that her father might be among the nameless forms there, and resulted in the prostration of Mrs. Collins after a night of weary searching.

The fact that he had over $2,000 in checks and money on his person when he waved goodbye to his daughter from a London omnibus added to the fear that he had met with foul play.

Inquiry in Edinburgh failed to discover anyone who had seen him at the educators convention to which he was a delegate.

CRIPPLED SHIP IS NOW REPORTED SAFE

New York, July 23.—Although crippled by a collision in a thick fog with the freighter Edward Luckenbach, sixty miles south of Ambrose light, an unidentified three masted schooner at first believed to be sinking, was reported safe today.

The crew of the crippled vessel took to the life boats immediately after the crash but returned to the schooner when it remained afloat.

Offers of assistance were declined.

The captain of the vessel said his ship had suffered no serious damage.

Columbus, O., July 23.—State investigation of fire insurance rates in Ohio, particularly as applicable to rural property, was forecast here today, following complaint filed with Governor Denney by Congressman Brand of Urbana, of a reported 50 per cent increase in rates on farm property. The inquiry is expected to be conducted by Harry H. Conn, state insurance director. Insurance men here said that Ohio, despite the increase in rates, which became effective July 1, still boasts the lowest fire insurance rates in the west.

STARVING A UNIVERSITY.

BECAUSE adequate financial support has been withheld the University of Georgia is facing a reduction in rank in the classification of American colleges. In the past the financial support has been meager, hindering the university in trying to care for the needs of the state that were presented. It has been retarded in growth and may be compelled to step backward and downward to a more humble position.

Naturally the university officials are alarmed at the situation and have been doing all in their power to prevent that bitter humiliation from coming to the state. They have sought various means for increasing the income aside from state appropriations. They could raise the funds necessary if they could increase the tuition to $300 per year and hold the same number of students now enrolled. But no man associated with the university believes the student body would be as large if the tuition were so increased. The charges in that line are high now, so high officials know it has hindered many students from enrolling. To make a large increase would shut the door to others.

It is difficult to understand the thought of the public that would permit such a situation to be developed in a proud commonwealth. Surely the men and women of Georgia will not weaken and humiliate their university that a few dollars may be pared from appropriations. Closing the doors of the university to high school graduates ambitious to keep going in their educational work would be the limit of bad government, worse than folly, a costly blunder from which the state would labor long to recover. For such a blunder there could be no justification provided. The need of each state is more of education, doors wide open, charges the lowest possible, appropriations of generous sums by the state, that humanity may be better and stronger for real work as the next generation arrives on the scene. It would seem safe to presume Georgia will find a way to keep her university at the present standing or push higher as the years come.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS.

In recent tests anti-aircraft guns were able to make a record far above any made previously. A target was towed by an airplane 6,000 feet above the earth at the rate of 70 miles per hour and the aircraft guns were able to score one hit in 18 shots while firing the gun each five seconds. The score made is about six times as good as was claimed by the gunners at the end of the war when shooting was done under combat conditions.

Men who are familiar with the anti-aircraft guns do not claim accuracy of shooting is obtainable in the same way in which it has been obtained in other forms of artillery combat. The anti-aircraft gun has a large value as deterrent. It has a great range, can be fired rapidly, can be handled to distribute the shots widely; when shells are used they are loaded with high explosives that cause great pockets to be formed in the air when exploded, making air navigation extremely hazardous for pilots even though there may be no hits scored. With these shells bursting all about there is nothing for the airplane to do but get out of range by distance or height. There remains always the lone chance that a hit may be scored, and no one wants to be in a place that is hit when a mile of space is open between the plane and the ground. Artillery experts on duty in France during the war sought to use the anti-aircraft guns for their deterrent and disturbing values, hoping, naturally, that a hit might be scored but in no wise disappointed if each shot failed to reach the target. One of the foremost artillery experts said then that if one hit in a thousand shots were made the guns would prove their worth.

There have been many improvements made in the guns, their plan of handling and in other ways since the war was ended. Naturally the gunners want to score hits. If one shot in each 18 is a hit, at a distance of more than a mile and a speed of more than a mile a minute, it must be conceded the gunners have been making great progress in their work since the war ended. That would make air navigation dangerous, extremely so, and would make anti-aircraft guns a very important weapon for defense.

Pitter-patter down the hall
Little Janet comes to call
With the robins on the lawn.
Comes to call at break of dawn
Comes and says: "Wake up, it's day!
Time to love and time to play."

"Half-past five, and mercy me!
I'm as sleepy as can be!
Kiss your mother now and go
To your dad who loves you so."
This is what I hear her say.
"Get in daddy's bed and play."

Pitter-patter to my bed,
Drowsily I hear her tread.
In she comes with shouts of glee
And a morning kiss for me,
Who could, any hour of day,

Frown such liveliness away?

Tired and sleepy, yes, but, oh,
What if we should never know
Such a smile and such a kiss?
Never wake to joy like this?
We should dread the dawn of day
If we had no babe to play.

Pitter-patter down the hall,
Little Janet comes to call.
Comes disturbing us at dawn
With the "robins on the lawn."
And this old heart loves the beat
Of those happy little feet.

Several Readers have written to me for directions for making a bathing bag. They seem to prefer a rather decorative bag, somewhat on the order of the kind one would use for shopping, but with a rubber lining. "I want it larger than the rubber bags one can buy in the stores to carry wet bathing suits," said one letter. Another woman writes: "I have bought the regular rubber bathing bag but wish to make an attractive outer cover for it."

Since receiving these letters I have been making a study of the bags used by my friends for this purpose. Most of them are homemade, decorative as well as merely useful. I am going to describe several:

Blue Linen Bathing Bag: This was undoubtedly the prettiest of them all. My friend had bought one half yard of dark blue, non-crush linen for 58 cents ($1.15 a yard). She cut two strips off one end of this for handles, and had then made the entire remainder into an oblong bag. She had then bought one half yard of rubberized cloth and made a separate bag of this, to slip inside the blue bag. The two were attached only at the top, which was finished with a neat hem. The handles were merely folded linen. The only decoration on the bag was a square on one side made by applying one yard of two-inch-wide gros-grain ribbon onto the linen; this ribbon was of the imported variety which is machine-embroidered in orange, red and green worsted. But any ribbon could be used, sewed on in any desired design.

Are You Tired, Achy—All Run Down?

This Xenia Resident Tells You How to Get Well.

Tired all the time? Lame, stiff and achy? Tortured with nagging backache? Knife-like twinges when you stoop or lift?

Miserable with headaches, dizzy spells and bladder irregularities? All are signs of kidney sickness! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys.

Here's Xenia testimony: Mrs. Hannah A. Reed, 520 W. Second St., says: "My back was weak and at times when I stooped I got sharp pains through it and I could hardly rise again. Mornings I was lame and tired and my back throbbed. My kidneys acted irregularly and caused annoyance. Doan's Pills relieved me of those pains in my back and my kidneys became normal."

Simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Reed had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Crash Bathing Bag: One half yard of crash had been used to make this bag, which in regard to size and lining was almost identical with the one described above. Its handles, however, were different, consisting of double loops of thick ecru cotton cord. And instead of using a ribbon decoration, its maker had embroidered flowers on one side of the bag with heavy, colored linen thread, using the "lazy daisy" stitch.

Tapestry Bathing Bag: This was smaller, the same size as the commercial rubber bathing bag (which was used for a lining.) It needed no decoration because of the sufficient beauty of the imitation tapestry. Gold cord formed its handles.

After Baby Was Born

Mrs. Miles Was Miserable a Long Time—Owes Final Recovery to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dover, Ohio.—"After my last baby was born I was up and around again, but I was sickly all the time and did not know how to get my work done. I had washed a heavy carpet and I think that was the cause of my troubles. I went to several doctors, but their medicines did not do me any good. I asked what the trouble was, for I could hardly walk and always had such pains in my left side and then in my right side. He told me I had inflammation that caused it. I had one of your text-books and was reading it, and I thought I would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After four days of taking it I began to feel better, so I took three bottles without missing a dose. That helped me more than any other medicine I had yet taken and I always have it handy now. It surely did put me on my feet again."—Mrs. JAMES MILES, 119 Cherry Street, Dover, Ohio.

What a happy day of toil, God! How mellow were the fields, and how like waves of silk the climbing growth from the seeds which we planted but a few months ago.

It was very warm today, but we didn't mind it for we felt the honest sweat bathe our faces and we knew that we were but preparing for the golden harvest, and we thought of the millions of men and women, babies and boys and girls, as well as the great numbers of dumb animals whom our labors would eventually help to sustain.

How beautiful were the fields, God. How blue the sky. How fragrant the winds that swept over our body from the distant woods, green with their massive foliage. How sweet were the songs of the birds that flitted here and there about the stone fences and shrubs at the end of the fields.

How we loved the smell of the dark dirt, moist from the tears of the

And weren't the pastures beautiful as the cows grazed the early summer grass. How lovely the groups of sheep against the east shadows of the late afternoon. We thought of the happy shepherds of old and how they loved their sheep. We thought of the many men who have come out from such green pastures and helped to make this strange world better and more helpful.

Every once in a while the back got tired today, God, and we felt a loneliness creep over us, but no sooner did this happen, than we were aware of some new expression in Nature that took our mind off ourselves and led us into the meditation of blessed mysteries.

"Thank you, God, for the day and its deeds. Reach down and close our eyes in a happy sleep. On the morrow lead us again to the fields for further service. And don't let us ever lose our love for the soil—the rich garment of Your world."

MODISH MITZI—Dad Isn't In Favor Of Large Hats

By JAY V. JAY.

Mitzi's hat is of sheer black straw with a wide band and bow of gold painted leather. Adelaide's is also of sheer straw—beige—with a metal ribbon for trimming. Polly's is of satin combined with maline—white and black—and has a large white poppy for decoration. They are all agreeing that though small hats are always smart there is something alluring about large ones. Well, so there is.

Dad has been inclined to agree with them, but finds his point of view reversed when they suddenly take an interest in the races. Dad has some interest in this race himself having a bet or two on it. It is doubtful whether or he can console himself with a back view of these large hats—however alluring. In fact it is quite probable that he will say a few pointed words on the subject in another minute or two.

SERIOUSLY HURT WHEN STRUCK BY TRACTION

Samuel McCray, 66, Belmont, is believed to be dying in the Miami Valley Hospital of a fractured skull and internal injuries received when he was struck by a Dayton, Springfield and Xenia Southern traction car at the intersection of the car line and Fauver Avenue, Belmont, early Wednesday morning.

Mr. McCray was grieving over the death of his daughter Mary who was to be buried Wednesday afternoon in Woodland Cemetery; this city, and is believed to have been unconscious of the danger until it was too late for him to escape. He is said to have jumped from the path of an automobile onto the car tracks.

His daughter, Miss Mary McCray, who was a teacher in Cleveland schools, died Monday. The McCray family lived in Xenia a number of years ago. Mr. McCray is a brother of the late Frank McCray, who was a former resident of this city.

In the handicap shoot, Spahr was high of the local entries by shattering ninety-one of a possible 100 at twenty yards. Ward Sharp broke eighty-eight at the same distance; B. J. Leveck, of Jamestown, eighty-seven; Edward Gentner, Xenia, eighty-six; Dick Denison, Yellow Springs, eighty-six, and H. L. Davis, son, seventy-eight.

RESERVES TO PLAY TROY REDMEN HERE

The Xenia Reserves will play a rubber game with the Troy Redmen Sunday afternoon at Washington Park diamond.

This will be the third clash this season between the two nines and a bitter contest is promised.

The Trojans possess a team that is considered better than the average and landed the locals a defeat in the first game of the series only to lose the verdict in a return game here.

Glass will ascend the hill for the Reserves again Sunday and the locals are confident of winning the rubber game and obtaining an edge on the series.

Glass is one of the finds of the season and the former Bowersville Bayliffs twirler should come through with another victory Sunday providing he is accorded the proper support.

"NOT POSSIBLE TO CLASSIFY"

BY MACK SAUER

Xenia, Ohio, July 23.—A few jottings of the day by Samuel Pepys, Jr.—Up and out to settle a few accounts, which do increase alarmingly. Bought a new kind of tie, that is one with a wire contrivance to hook over my collar button, very convenient. To see the new styles in furniture at Galloway and Cherry's and Lord's what beauties there are.

Albert filled with a desire to jump off the South Detroit Street bridge into the creek, would not, frightened that I would ruin my clothes, having no other paid. For a stroll through Deweyville where came upon John Jones and had discourse with him about getting some apples for apple butter, a dish I love above all else. Got started on the subject of evolution, but could say nothing, such a subject befuddling me completely.

Home at noon for dinner of soup beans and kraut, where found my wife, poor wretch, uneasy about no screens up yet, and there out of my natural laziness, did make no signs of putting them up, which vexed her and did occasion some discontented talk, she fearing the flies will eat her up, so bothersome they are this year. So got busy and put them up and soon we were good friends again.

Through the country to New Jasper and about, talking with a man long out of work, and intelligent he was, and brave, far braver than I could ever be. Made resolve to do no dancing this winter, no matter what the occasion might be, and I mean to keep it above all else, for to me nothing in all the world is so silly.

Froze nearly, being in my shirt sleeves, so home where got out my red flannels to have in case of a freeze.

SO I SAID TO HIM

An orator is he,
He knows the speaking ropes,
The practice he acquired
Addressing envelopes.

HOBBIES OF THE GREAT AND NEAR GREAT AS TOLD BY NEWS WRITER

Editor's Note—This is the seventh of a series of intimate sketches which reveal the national political figure as a "brother under the skin" to the man behind the plow, the white collar worker or the day laborer. Others will follow.

JAMES J. DAVIS

Acting as daddy to twelve hundred children is the principal hobby of James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor in the Coolidge Cabinet.

It is as director of "Mooseheart," the greatest orphanage maintained in Illinois by the Loyal Order of Moose, that Secretary Davis acquires this tremendous family. And every youngster in the home looks up to Director "Jim" as a daddy, uncle and big brother rolled into one.

Children are his love. He has four of his own, besides the "Mooseheart" family. Conservation of youth is his fetish. Let a movement start to improve child hygienics, or to remove child hazards, and Secretary Davis will be found in the van, giving his undivided support. The consummation of this love is evidenced at "Mooseheart," which he founded for friendless waifs and built with subscriptions obtained from 600,000 members of his order.

EDUCATES CHILDREN
Under Davis' personal direction, approximately $6,500,000 was spent on the home. Davis was not satisfied with just a home for the youngsters. He insisted that a high school be maintained there so the waifs might be properly educated. With this acquired, he insisted a manual training school be added so the youngsters could learn a trade before going out into the world. Both additions were made under his direction.

The Secretary is a frequent visitor at "Mooseheart." He loves to roam through the corridors of the home, children running before him and after him, with a dozen clinging to his hands.

There is drama in this Davis love for children. The Secretary cannot forget his own childhood, when he worked as a boy in the glaring fires of a puddle mill. He is known today among his intimates as "Puddler Jim," and he bears that nickname as other great men do a famous university degree. He remembers the weary days of blast furnaces, the long hours of handling white-hot metal, his constant desire for something better.

Now his code for all children is: "Every boy and every girl is entitled to at least a high-school education. Every boy should be taught some trade."

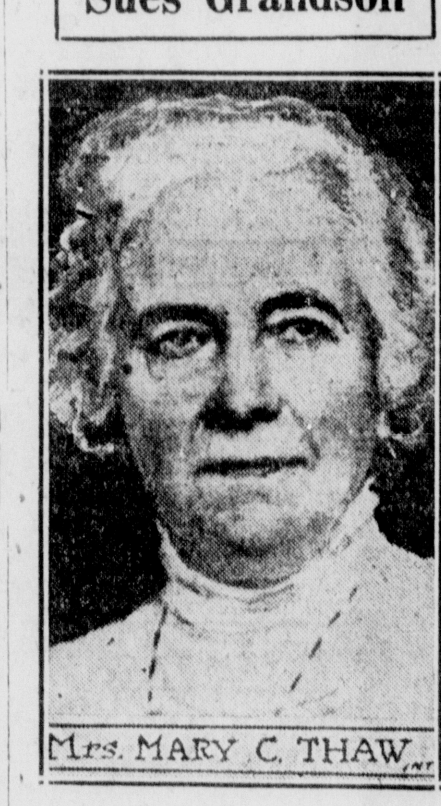

This is the Davis prescription for a better manhood and womanhood and a better America.

LOVES MUSIC
That is another Davis hobby, music—good music. He loves grand opera, but about all Welsh choral music. He has a penchant for helping youngsters to a musical education. In one instance, he even sent a protege abroad to study under the European masters. He is especially active in all Welsh Elsteddods—the Welsh singing societies—and the Gorsedd. He is a high official of the National Elsteddod.

The Secretary is also an ardent golfer. Aside from romps with his family, golf furnishes him with recreation. He is a little better on the links than the usual Cabinet member and has roundly trounced most of his Senatorial opponents.

Davis has one weakness. It is a fondness for "Mulligan stew," a combination of vegetables and meat. He

Admits Hoax

James M. Ball, Detroit telegrapher, whose false message to Governor Small, of Illinois, stayed the execution of Russell Scott, convicted Chicago murderer, said he was moved by "an inordinate sympathy" for men about to be hanged.

BERNARR MACFADDEN

It is inadvisable to underclothe the body, in very cold weather, particularly if not used to it. For the aged, especially when the natural heat is low, this is inadvisable. Keeping the surface of the body fairly warm enables it to employ its vital activities for purposes other than that of replacing the heat which is radiated from the skin when it is not properly protected, or the surrounding atmosphere is unduly low.

If the body has been accustomed to cold air, cold water, etc., during the early years, the old person can withstand low temperatures well; but if the body has never been subjected to this toughening process, the old person must be careful about leaving off heavy clothing. After his skin has been toughened by sun and air-baths, and by various health- and vitality-building methods he may be able to do so; but to leave it off without such preparation would be to inhibit at once the normal activity of the skin, with the result that it would cease to function properly.

All changes of clothing should be made very carefully and very gradually, therefore thinner garments being adopted only after thinner clothing is craved because of the activity of the skin and the general improvement in the health.

At the same time, impervious garments are as unwholesome for the old man or woman as they are for the young of either sex. The skin cannot function properly if the pores are clogged, the skin inactive, and anemic, and the tissues flabby. Nerves and blood-vessels need air, and greater ventilation for the surface of the skin than our present clothing habits provide is essential. Woolen clothing readily absorbs the moisture from the body, but also retains it, and the result of this is a constant layer of damp clothing next to the skin. This is impervious to air; and, if the weather turns suddenly chilly, it tends to cool off the body unduly and cause discomfort.

Silk and linen make the best undergarments, and are usually to be recommended. They are warm, and at the same time permit the access of a certain amount of air to the surface of the body. This promotes the activity of the skin and it must be remembered that so long as the skin is fairly active, it will not feel cold, or become chilled.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend."

Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait until today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., R. A. 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER 103.

Again the question plagued Michael's mind: "Why does she hate Lonnie? Are the stories she has been hearing about him the real reason? These queries naturally led his thoughts on to another: 'Does she dislike him because he was indifferent to her in the old days—is there some love affair back of all this?' He immediately banished the idea, but he could not help looking severely into her eyes.

"Of course," she responded, her frown deepening, "you know best about that, dear, and it is for you to decide; but I hope that taking in Lonnie as a partner won't make it obligatory to have him as a frequent guest here."

Her husband shrugged. "Let's not argue about it," he smiled, patting her on the shoulder affectionately. "I don't know whether I am going to take this step. I rather doubt it."

"Why not, dear?"

"Let me sleep on the idea. I must think it over." With that he kissed her, and stretched his arms wearily.

This sudden witting of his enthusiasm disappointed Lila. She dropped the subject reluctantly.

"Well, just remember that you haven't ages and ages of time to act."

At the breakfast table, in the morning, she queried him: "Well, now that you slept on the idea, what do you think of it?"

"I really haven't thought about it." There was an indifference in his answer, given as he glanced at his newspaper, that piqued her. How could he be indifferent to such an important thing? The thought annoyed her.

"Dearest," she said slowly, "I hope that my telling you that I didn't want to entertain Lonnie as a guest hasn't made you change your mind. Has it dear?"

He shook his head as his eyes arose from the newspaper.

"No. I don't care what these old cats around town have been saying. If I decide to go into business for myself, I'll hire him if I like—and I'll also entertain him here, if I like." His eyes did not see the flash in her's.

It was the first time he had ever used that tone in speaking to her. Her lips compressed tightly. She wanted to cry. This tone was never to affect her that way again.

Now he glanced at her, and was made uncomfortable.

"Dearest, I didn't mean—, I meant—"

"I am capable of understanding you very well," she responded. She started to rise from the table but quickly recovered herself; for Sally entered at just that moment.

"Sally, I hear you are in love," Michael exclaimed, tactfully.

The housekeeper colored slightly and had difficulty in speaking distinctly in answering him: "Aw, 'tisn't as bad as that, Mr. Michael." She glanced at Lila.

"There's a man coming to see me, but he's just a friend."

"Police man?"

"Aw, you know I don't like these big Irish gorillas we have around here."

"Women begin loving a man by hating him, Sally. There's a very thin distinction between love and hate, anyway."

"Aw, now, Mr. Michael."

"Mrs. Menlow is very witty this morning, Sally. You must laugh at everything he says," Lila put in, coldly.

Michael smiled at her and remained silent.

He left the house in a thoughtful mood. He had just started the car when he saw Mother Pharely approaching the house. She waved at him.

"I suppose Lila will cry on her shoulder," he reflected.

Famous CHEAP STORE

I Don't Agree With Doc

Doc Sayre claimed the other day that the Drug Store contributed more to Human Contentment than a Hardware Store and I DISAGREED STRONGLY with him. I claim that the difference between Savagery and Civilization is that the civilized man WORKS and THINKS! WORK and CONTENTMENT are synonymous! And here's what a Hardware store DOES—

Nearly every last item we sell here is MADE TO WORK with!

Hoes, shovels, washing machines, mowers, reapers, saws, hammers, cream separators, scythes lawn mowers, nails, screws ALWAYS PRECEDE WORK and THOUGHT? Does that apply to a face cream or a talcum powder or a pill?

No, I don't agree with Doc.

JACK WILLETT

Sherlock Holmes Has Nothing On Verne and Harry!

For some time back Verne and Harry have been noting carefully how so few people are buying automobiles. They've only DOUBLED their LAST YEAR'S BUSINESS on Studebakers and they were worried, also suspicious.

Every sign pointed to the Return of the Horse and Auto Prohibition, so Harry and Verne disguised themselves as horse flies and set about uncovering the Truth! What they uncovered was very disquieting but surely explains many, many things you may have noticed lately!

IT'S THE AUDABON SOCIETY WHICH IS BACK OF THIS MOVE FOR AUTO PROHIBITION!

For countless thousands of years, birds have been looked upon as the symbols of carefreeness, happiness, airiness and don't giveaderness. Their problems of living were easily solved. They spun not, neither did they toil. And NOW look at the poor things! Bird lovers, Audabon Society members are having their hearts throb with pity and pain at the sight of dear little sparrows following a string of Studebakers along the road only to be miserably disappointed in the end!

Verne and Harry buzzed among Audabon members for many days before the real truth dawned on them, but evidence, clear beyond dispute, came to them so that there is no doubt at all at all.

It's the Audabon Society which is sponsoring Auto Prohibition!

Great Credit should be given these two sleuths and their clever disguise.

MACK.

FLY NETS!

Even a modest, unassuming horse sticks out its chest, ears and fore feet when outfitted with one of our pure leather feather edge fly nets! These are Hawaiian style and are much despised by hard boiled horse flies. Increases horse contentment 39 1-2 per cent.

HITCHING POSTS!

We supply holes for these. At great expense of time, energy and gray matter, Beal gathered up all the old cellars in Xenia and these have been cut up into post holes. Only one to a customer however.

NOSE BAGS!

The old fashioned kind were unsightly and mares especially, hated to be caught wearing them. The ones we got now are dainty, dignified and are so constructed that they are practically soundless. They come in several of the newer pastel shades.

To think that Mr. Shorty—died-in-the-wool disciple of Inertia, should be compelled to associate with folks harboring ideas like Jack Willett goes to show how low one can sink! I'd never have believed I could get so depraved as to appear on the same page with a person who held THAT idea on WORK!

You can betcha I'm not going to buy no hardware very soon if THAT'S what it does to you! It's me for face creams and talcum FOR- EVER! All I own NOW is a hammer and I may throw even THAT away!

Wotta life!
